

WE NOMINATE

Jean-Pierre Meyer, 40-year old Swiss-born dynamo, who this week—with the issuance of "The President's Six-Month Report to the Stockholders of The Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce and Civic Council"—has helped ease the transition between a halcyon summer and a fall-winter-spring of strenuous activity. At the time of year when municipal agencies are about to start "thinking big," following a hiatus of weeks, Meyer has brought forth a 75-item, 8-page broadside which seeks to focus public attention on areas of abiding concern ranging from studies of Township-Borough consolidation to "telephone courtesy classes" for institutions and business organizations.

One of the heartening aspects of this unusual document is that Meyer, manager since 1955 of Bamberger's Princeton, a member of Bamberger's administrative board, and a rising star in the controlling Macy Corporation, does not attempt to "claim credits" for the apparently thriving Princeton Chamber. On the contrary, in reporting "No News on the Western Front," he suggests the Borough's stumbling progress on the long-delayed Park Place Parking Yard in these terms: one property coming down, situation optimistic for another, one still holding out, and the use of another owner still in doubt.

The Horatio Alger legend of immigrant boy to successful American business executive is an old, old story but seldom has success been achieved as rapidly as in the case of Meyer. In 15 short years, with a kind of restless energy defying description, he has risen from a $30-a-week office boy in a Manhattan law firm to his present, expanding responsibilities as the third Princetonian to preside over the development of an association that, in his words, is striving to bring together for the purposes of "Community-Unity" the "educational-professional, research and commercial interests" of the municipalities comprising the Princeton Area.

Back in 1916 in his native Lausanne, Switzerland, where he was learning the business of selling horses, a distant cousin ("uncle") intrigued Meyer with the possibilities offered by the United States. Months later an air-sick young Swiss, with all of his possessions laced into the traditional "battered suitcase," reached New York City, benefited from an understanding relative's interest, mastered English with the assistance of a Columbia University professor and, finally, landed a sales post in the ski department of Macy's—a position enabling him to combine a rich Swiss accent with an extremely limited knowledge of skiing.

As Meyer, whose son is a ranking member of the senior class at Seton Hall University, has moved up through the Bamberger hierarchy, he has made time for a staggering variety of worthwhile service activities. A trustee of the United Community Fund, an enthusiastic officer of the Princeton Rotary Club and a driving force in the Boy Scout Movement, he has in recent months been giving more and more of himself to his voluntary duties as Assistant Chairman of the Governor's Committee on the Employment of the Handicapped, a far-reaching program he describes as "an inspiring experience" and, also, as "sound business for us all."

For refuting by personal interests and example the standards traditionally associated with a dollar-conscious Chamber of Commerce; for feeling that municipal and institutional cooperation holds the key to the Princeton Community's future; for coupling achievements with deeply held aspirations; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

SIX SEE THE TOWN

As "Experimenters." What a does Princeton look like to the town from Nigeria who come here to live for a month before going to an American campus to study?

Does he think Princeton is a typical American town? What are his impressions as he walks along Nassau Street, sits down at a Princeton table for dinner, chats after dinner with the friends who drop in to visit his host family?

Six young students — three from Nigeria and one each from Upper Volta, Kenya and France — are now living in Princeton or neighboring towns, having arrived here on August 13 to spend a month with an American family under the auspices of the Experiment in International Living.
"When a student participates in the normal, day-to-day activity of a family," explains David Hogenauer, who is, with Mrs. William Duryee, one of the executives of the Princeton program, "he gains a truer picture of American life than any tourist could and certainly a truer picture than he could himself if he went directly to his university from the ship that brought him here."

Pre-Campus Stay. The three Nigerian students are staying with the families of Paul Mittman, 4 Glenview Drive; Bernard Aaronson, 56 Merritt Drive, Nassau Estates and Irvining Rabinowitz, 4 Glenview Drive. All three are scientists.

Classified advertising must be cancelled or changed before 5 p.m. this Friday. New classified ads will be accepted until 5 p.m. Tuesday, September 4th. News material should be submitted as early as possible.

Anherst for work in the teaching of English after his visit with Mr. and Mrs. Hans Lechner, Skillman, and the one woman in the group, a young girl from Kenya, will study teaching at Manhattanville when she leaves the family of John McAndrew, Edgerstoune Road.

The six students, Mr. Hogenauer and Mrs. Lechner sat together one warm Princeton afternoon in the Hogenauer apartment talking about their impressions of the town and of the country. They were articulate—the Nigerians in particular—and quite as eager to hear everything they could about the United States as they were to tell their impressions.

"Is there anyone in Princeton who does not have a PhD?" asked one Nigerian student. "I went to a party where there were about 15 people: a psychologist, a chemist, a mechanical engineer—all of them with the doctorate. I said to myself, 'Is all America like this?' and I asked my host about it."

"My host said, 'My neighbor impressions of the town and is a salesman, why not go next door and introduce yourself?' So I went next door and I met a salesman of vacuum cleaners who owns a flashy car. He said he enjoyed his work and that he gets on very well with housewives, but he works so late every day! Only on Saturday is he free to mow the lawn."

Another Nigerian said that he, too, had noticed how hard American men work. And then one student said, "I would like to meet a farmer," and immediately everyone said yes! If only we could meet a farmer!

"You Are Friendly." "Hospitality and a friendliness." All six students agree instantly that these are the things they noticed first about the United States and about Princeton.

"We are all impressed by this hospitality," said one student. "It greeted us the moment we arrived, sometimes coming even from strangers."

"We had a warm welcome from Americans we had never seen before," said one Nigerian student, the only one in the group who was wearing his own native dress, a flowing garment of white, yellow cotton and a grey lamb-wool cap. "Strangers stopped us and wished us luck. My host family was waiting for me at the boat, ready to help me get through formalities quickly, and already in that evening, I went with them to friends' houses for a party, drinks, and the discussion of current affairs."

But—Segregation. But with the friendliness, there is the shadow of segregation, and this is a matter which concerns these young students deeply: only one of them is white. They had known of segregation, of course, but somehow they had expected to find it only in the south.

One Nigerian is staying in Princeton with a Negro family, and he said that he had presided them about segregation, asking them repeatedly to take him to a place where he could feel his blows personally.

"I didn't know it was still practiced in Princeton," said another Nigerian. "I had thought it existed mostly among the lower social and economic groups who felt that the Negro would be competing with them, but I did not believe there would be prejudice among educated people."
"It is not what one expects in a country dedicated to freedom," commented another Nigerian.
These students had all found, incidentally, that the hosts and their hosts' friends seemed knowledgeable about Africa generally and Nigeria specifically, but the girl from Kenya, found a startling ignorance about her country.
"Someone asked me 'Do you have cows?'" she laughed.

Let's Eat. Food, of course is a great experience. As they sat talking, the warm summer afternoon around them, the six students held tall glasses of iced-tea but they had accepted the drink politely and without much comment.

"Feed drinks are too cold," they explained. But they all love the food.
"The food is so much better than I expected it to be," said the French student. "It is not at all like the food in England."
One Nigerian said in marvel (that) his hostess offered him ten different alternatives if I did not like what she had prepared, and she is always anxious of meal-time, lest I not like the food."

This guest had prepared for his hostess a Nigerian soup made usually with a palm oil base but, palm oil being scarce in Princeton, made on this occasion with a vegetable oil base and tomato paste.

"Was it successful?" his friends wanted to know. He thought for a moment, and then he laughed.
"I should say — it tasted about 70 percent the way it does at home."

This student cannot make his peace with American salad. Life pronounces the words with the accent on the final syllable.
"Usually we put those vegetables in soup at home," he explained, "but to have them served as salad... He shuddered fastidiously. Then he said that his Princeton hostess was so sympathetic that she no longer put the salad on the table.

Families at home. Princeton family life seems to agree with these visitors, although they are disturbed by the American habit of calling people by their first names.
"My Princeton host insists that I call him by his first name," said one Nigerian with concern. "But he is my senior, and he holds the PhD, and this would be a lack of respect on my part."

American children are pleasant, the visitors say, but they don't do much manual labor, do they?
One guest living in a family with a five-year-old, found the youngster's inquisitiveness delightful. "I told him I would take him back to Nigeria with me, and he instantly said 'How about my schooling?'"

But the most difficult thing to understand about American family life is the position of women.
"They are the bosses!" exclaimed one Nigerian. "I think of a man with a PhD working hard all day, and then you expect him to help with the dishes! And the American man apparently has no right to dictate his wife's affairs even when she is wrong!"

His remarks drew instant sympathy from the other students, although the young woman from Kenya said shyly, "The woman ought to have a say."
"Men are superior to women," the Nigerian went on. "I realize my feelings in this respect sprang from my cultural background, but still this is my belief. I find it necessary," and he continued, "while I am in Princeton and in the United States, however, to regard women as an equal."

"Let us say," laughed the Nigerian in the flowing white robe, "let us say that men and women are equal, but men are more so."
Then the student who had remarked about PhD's washing dishes, leaned forward with a question of his own: "Is it not true that in this country it is possible to obtain plate-washing machines?"

The Program. Here in Princeton, the two Nigerian students have had varying experiences depending on their host families. Two Nigerians around considerable comment by walking from the heart of Princeton to the Chenoweth homes, which lie just off Route One south of Alexander Street.
"Extravagant rides and odorous walks," one of these visitors remarked, "a car seems to be a minimum group."
One student spent considerable time at the Neuro-psychiatric Institute. Some have played tennis, gone swimming in the University's co-operative swimming pools or been on family parties. The young lady from Kenya has been to Ashbury Park and to Lake Hopewong (which she pronounced without a stumble).

As a group, the students toured the University campus, sitting on the long Nassau Hall benches listening to a blond young man tell about the University and town during the American Revolution.
He told the students, five of them so recently emerged from colonialism, about the British cannonball holes in Nassau Hall, and how the British had occupied the town.

The guide displayed the mace presented by Princeton to the University in 1956 to commemorate the coming of the young guide, "200 years of peaceful co-existence between University and town."

For some curious reason, the six students, so strange to this new and foreign community, caught the humor in the remark, because all of them laughed spontaneously and naturally at the guide's explanation.

"We want to see around us much as we can," one Nigerian said earnestly, "we would like to see Yellowstone and zoos and factories and cowboys and the Hudson-Mohawk Valleys."

One wants to go mountain climbing and he has a date to do so with Mr. Hogenauer, but it was explained to him that the "mountain" chosen for this expedition was scarcely an Alp.

"I am happy that it is not bigger," he grinned.

The keen interest displayed by Americans and by Princeton residents in foreigners is puzzling to these young Africans.
"Is it good or not that there is such interest?" speculated

Person to Person

The other day, when a fellow asked us whether we ever heard of a "plexus in the dermis" if he hadn't been smiling we Cory S. Krametz would have called for the man in the white coat. But then he explained that is simply technical language for saying how in man's nervous system the sense of touch is derived from a network of nerve ends in the skin which send their sense-of-touch-messages from the skin through the network of nerves to the brain. Plexus: a network; dermis: skin. Whenever we think of the make-up of a human body we are simply floored with its thousands of mysteries, too much for mortals, its owner, even to start to imagine how it all works. We are reminded of something once said by Dr. George Gallup, the famous researcher who said, "I could grove God statistically. Take the human body alone... the chance that all the functions of the individual would just happen is a statistical monstrosity." It makes us feel by comparison that our business isn't complicated, but actually, by man's standards, it is, and we've spent years specializing in every facet of it so that we can really serve you for your maximum benefit. Kammer Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206, opposite Princeton Airport, WA 1-2222.

one, "If I wear my Nigerian dress down Nassau Street, I find a thousand pairs of eyes fastened on me and I ask, 'Is this good or bad?'"
The thousand pairs of eyes are raised in silent greeting as much in curiosity, because Princeton residents feel toward these six students, although they may not express it so openly, the same warmth that has been extended by the host families.

A PLACE TO GO

For Teens. The continuing and netting question of teenage recreation remained with Princeton this week following a suggestion that citizens of the community buy the Second Presbyterian Church at Nassau and Chambers, when it goes on the market after the new church has been built.

"It is a perfect location for a teen center," commented Mrs. Frank Vomacha, a member of Mayor Henry Patterson's recreation advisory committee, "a place to go is terribly important for these kids, because there's just nothing for them to do around here on Saturday nights, and we could give them a little better opportunity."

Alfred E. Sorenson, Borough Councilman, suggested that the cost of acquiring the church would probably be prohibitive, and that it might be cheaper to build a youth center.

"Teenagers have been provided for, but not as well as they should have been," Professor Sorenson said. "There may be a bigger problem here than we realize."

The Teen Canteen, originally sponsored by the YMCA, YWCA, Jaycees and the Princeton High School P.T.A., seems to have melted away. There were dances announced for this summer, but troubles developed at the first dance and only one has been held since.

Last spring, the P.T.A. withdrew its sponsorship after discovering that it would be legally liable for accidents, and that the cost of insurance was prohibitive. The YMCA has withdrawn its sponsorship and the YMCA has said that it would withdraw also, although it is apparently still working with the Canteen.

According to Mrs. Vomacha, many teen-agers in carpools to Canteens in Mercerville and in Princeton Junction.

One reason for the decline of the Princeton Canteen was the apathy of parents who didn't care to serve as chaperones, Mrs. Vomacha says, but she also points to a responsibility on the part of the youngsters.

"The kids didn't take enough responsibility," she says, "and I think it's because adults had always done everything for them. The kids need to be thrown on their own and allowed to show what they can do." She also referred to what she called "poor organization" within the Canteen.

Meantime, part of the gap has been filled by the YM and YWCA. In a report issued this week, the YWCA reports an increase in enrollment from 1,000 in September, 1956, to 4,208 in September, 1961.

The YMCA is deeply concerned about the teen problem, and its general secretary, Frank Clark, says he believes the "y" can do more than it has done. He plans to hold a full-scale discussion of the matter this fall.

"You cannot have the 'y' as a place where kids can just come and hang around," Mr. Clark says, "because it costs us about $50,000 a year to run the building. Our first obligation is to our 5,000 members. An unsupervised recreation center has discipline problems, too."

The snack bar in the Y's Avalon Place building is open from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 3:30 to 4:30, and, also, when a scheduled program is being held.

Every Tuesday night, there is a jam session ("bring your own records") at the "y," but only members are eligible to attend. Summer dances this year sponsored by the YMCA were well-attended, according to Mr. Clark. There was no membership requirement for attendance.

END OF AN ERA?

Ball Building for Sale. Generations of late-night coffee tippers and hamburger munchers are apprehensive this week over the possible demise of a Princeton "institution" and a Nassau Street landmark. The building housing the Ball Restaurant is for sale.

The abiding question is, will the Ball itself remain after the building has been sold, or will it pass into memory?

Edmund Cook & Company, realtors, 190 Nassau Street, say that the three-story structure at 89-93-95 Nassau, which houses the tile-walled eatery, was offered for sale several weeks ago.

The Nassau Pharmacy and The Bilt Bakery are also located in the building on the street floor. On the second floor is a central office, the headquarters of Princeton Housing Associates, Inc., and Modern Community Developers, Inc. There are apartments on the third floor.

The building is owned by the Tarbell estate. Adjoining buildings at 12 and 14 Witherspoon Street, also for sale, house George Mark's Laundry and the Radio and Hobby Center.

MOVING FIRMS SWAMPED
Average 55-70 Hour Week. Each Princeton moving company is packing up an average of seven to nine families a day in the busiest season within memory. Truck teams have averaged 55 to 70 hours a week since the middle of June.

Some companies, such as Manning-McClayflower, are hiring as many as 12 extra men a day. E. L. Bohren keeps 27 men working. The vans are also moving companies, such as McGraw Hill, Mathematica and others. And they are packing for Munich, Paris, Israel — everywhere. Nationally, one in every four families is expected to pull up stakes this year. The tab will be some $221 million.

CHILD "ADOPTED"

By Princeton Couple. Professor and Mrs. E. B. O. Borgerhoff, 114 Broadmead, have "financially adopted" a four-year-old Greek girl, Evdokia Natiouli, through the Foster Parents' Plan, Inc. of New York. Financial adoption means that the Borgerhoffs contribute a monthly allowance toward the child's support for at least one year.

Foster Parents' Plan, a non-profit, non-sectarian group, was founded in 1937. It is now helping more than 28,000 children in Greece, Italy, Korea, France, Viet Nam, Hong Kong, the Philippines and Colombia. Since the group's founding more than 600,000 individuals and groups in America have participated in the program. Professor Borgerhoff is a member of Princeton's Department of Romance Languages.

and Literatures. The Borgerhoffs have three children of their own. Evdokia lives in a primitive home with her sister and parents in a mountain village 23 miles from Preveza. Her father, who lost his left arm in World War II, works the land.

Foster Parents' Plan aid provides a monthly cash grant, food and clothing and special medical care. Correspondence through the plan office is arranged between the adopted child and her foster parents. The foster parents also receive — Continued on Page 10

News Of The THEATRES

THE PLAYHOUSE
That Touch of Mink (Aug. 29-Sept. 4) is a sophisticated comedy in the tradition of "Pillow Talk." "Operation Petticoat" and "Love Come Back." Cary Grant, Doris Day, Gig Young and Audrey Meadows romp through a series of hilarious situations.

The story, if it makes any difference, is about a tremendously wealthy business man, Cary Grant, who meets an unemployed working girl, played by Doris Day, through splashing mud on her. The film goes its merry way from there, aided and abetted by Gig Young as Grant's economic advisor who hates him, and Audrey Meadows as the girl who puts the food in the slots at the Automat. Comment: It's a howler.

Two Weeks In Another Town opens Sept. 5! This is an off-beat picture about the drama of movie-making in Rome.

Kirk Douglas takes the part of a former Hollywood star trying to beat his way back and Edward G. Robinson is a film director on the same path. A merciless scene comes when Robinson is stricken

Moving Day
Next Tuesday will be moving day for the Princeton Visiting Nurse Association. The organization will make its headquarters in a basement office at 253 Witherspoon Street, the new Medical Arts Building adjoining Princeton Hospital.

It will be more convenient for the nurses and the community," says Mrs. John C. Williams, a director. "We will probably hold the Baby Keep Well Clinic there."

Miss Esther Dilworth is president of the Association, which now has four nurses on its staff.

with a heart attack and his shrew of a wife, played by Claire Trevor, raves at him. Cyd Charisse is the wanton femme fatale to whom Douglas was once married. She shares with him a wild automobile ride through darkened Rome—with Douglas careening through a final catharsis of insanity—which is likely to prove a classic of its kind.

Others in the cast are George Hamilton as a brooding youth, and Dablia Lavi as a typical Italian starlet. The film is frank, especially so in its night-life scenes, and dramatically photographed in color. Comment: Provocative and a dud.

THE GARDEN
Phantom of the Opera (Aug. 29-Sept. 4) It was almost 40 years ago, in 1925, when the late, great Lon Chaney starred in the first version of "Phantom of the Opera." The film was remade in 1942 by Claude Rains and Nelson Eddy. The current, and British, version proves that a good story never dies.

The plot concerns an apparent ghost who haunts the London Opera House, and the cast has pulled all stops to make it an above-average horror picture. Comment: Very weirdo.

THE PRINCE
That Touch of Mink (thru Sept. 4, see review above.)

A Dog of Flanders (Sept. 1, matinee only) Onda's famous classic for children is very well done. David Ladd gives a sensitive portrayal of the poor Dutch boy who dreams of becoming a great painter. His powerful love for his dog, his reverence for the painter Rubens and his struggle against enshrouding poverty are depicted with great skill and little bathos.

Donald Crisp, as the boy's grandfather, is memorable, as is the dog, "Fatsie." Comment: A moving painting of farm and city life in Holland and Belgium, circa 1900.

Follow That Dream (opens Sept. 5) stars Elvis Presley in an amusing satire on government aid. His pop, played by Arthur O'Connell, is a shiftless Floridian who has been living on various kinds of bounty for years.

Presley, not overly bright and fearful of marriage, becomes involved when a highway inspector tries to evict the family, when a welfare supervisor, played by Joanne Moore, makes a play for him, and when a gambler opens a casino on the property. In the course of the lively going-on, Elvis sings several numbers. Comment: Elvis in form.

COMEDY SPOOF: Cary Grant puts a further touch of icing on an already well-endowed "cake" (Doris Day) in "That Touch of Mink," now at the Playhouse.

News Of The Theatres

box-office hours will be from 10 to 5 daily.

HARVEY WILL HOP

At Bucks Playhouse, "Harvey," the Pulitzer Prize-winning comedy by Mary Chase, will close out the summer season at the Bucks County Playhouse with a two-week run beginning Monday. Tom Ewell will star in the comedy about Elwood P. Dowd and his friend, Harvey, an invisible rabbit who is six and a half feet tall. "Crazy Old Owl," starring Dennis King, will end its run at the Playhouse on Saturday.

James Hammerstein, son of the late Oscar Hammerstein, will direct "Harvey." He has directed "Come Blow Your Horn," "The Tender Trap" and "Flower Drum Song" for the summer circuit. He was co-producer of "Blue Denim" on Broadway.

Mr. Ewell brought a one-man show to the Playhouse last summer. He has appeared in "The Seven Year Itch" and in "The Tunnel of Love" on Broadway. He was last seen on Broadway in "The Furber Carnival." He has his own television series, "The Tom Ewell Show."

Wallace Acton, who was seen at the Playhouse earlier this season in "Love Among The Ruins," will return to play the role of Dr. Chumley "Harvey" will be the tenth show in which Mr. Acton has appeared for the playhouse. John Raymond Freeman has designed the sets and Richard Nelson has charge of lighting.

O.U.T.S. TO TIDDLE

Against Bucks Team: The Oxford University Tiddlywinks Society (O.U.T.S.) will compete with a team from the Bucks County Playhouse on Sunday afternoon at Tom Reddy's Playhouse Inn.

Members of the Oxford team, champions of England, are Elizabeth King, Philip Moore, Peter Freeman and Dave Willis. The Bucks County Playhouse team will include S. J. Perelman and Dennis King. The other two players will be named soon.

The game is played with small counters that a player pops into a cup by pressing their edges with a larger disc. The name comes from the winner's saying "Tiddle-a-wink" when he goes out, according to a spokesman for the O.U.T.S.

"ART FOR CHRISTMAS"

Is Title of Show: The New Hope, Pa., Historical Society will sponsor a three-month art exhibition entitled "Art for Christmas" at the society's Parry Barn beginning Friday, September 7. Seventy-one artists from the Delaware Valley area will have paintings, sculpture, etchings

SUITCASE READY?
Pack At Edith's. Girls packing for college or stay-at-home packing for high school will find plenty of suitcase stuffing at Edith's on Chambers Street, where the inner woman comes first.
Begin if you're a junior, with Maidenform's modestly padded bra designed with side straps, like a contour bra, and a low front cut to allow for party dresses. On other occasions wear Ball's lace bra with filigree wiring, useful for its flexibility and its shapeliness even after washing. This white nylon bon-bon is $3.95.

A junior panty-girdle (or regular, if you wish) by Treo is so slight you wonder why it's necessary at all. Does provide useful control, however, under tight slacks or Bermudas. A heavier girdle by Olga is made of Lycra and designed with a firm front panel for greater control. It comes in long-leg or panty style for $10.95.

Edith's shows the girls a collection of garter belts from $1.50 in white cotton. Some, in rose beige, blue or black with embroidery, are $3.05.

Pettipants are big—no! they're small and svelte, but you know what we mean—do young legs this fall. A petti-pant, mother, is an old-fashioned pantaleon cut just above the knee and trimmed of ruffles, although in place of the ruffle, you may find a band of white bunny fur edging a leg of a black nylon tricot.

Another pair at Edith's is a montage of peach and brown cartoon faces of impish little boys and girls. The leg edging is peach tricot. Alena's eye blinks from the leg of a pair of cherry red or black pants, and "Peppermint Twist"

Bloomers? Yes!

But such a difference! These are baggy, Turkish pants that come just above the knee, hanging loosely without the constricting elastic band you associate with regular bloomers.

Now comes the surprise: they are really a bouffant petticoat, made of layers of white nylon tricot, nylon net and stiffener.

Worn under a dress, they give the usual appearance of a bouffant. Worn under a dance dress or under a dress that's headed for a spanking summer breeze, they give the protection of old-fashioned bloomers with the ease of a modern bouffant. Spin and whirl all you like, and be as decorous as a law firm in patalettes.

The shop is Edith's, 10 Chambers Street.

Stripes ediven a basically white pair.

These also come in practically every solid color, too.

Half slips, the half sisters of pettipants, are cut wider than full slips to go under the gored skirts you find everywhere. One of Edith's prettiest is double nylon tricot in powder blue with lace at its scalloped hemline. Come in a gold beige, too. A junior size full slip at $4 is white nylon tricot with lace at the bottom and a size 7-13 range.

To make studying more palatable, Edith's suggests a long-sleeved white flannel gown covered all over with maize, powder, rose or green scrolls and flowers. There is a round collar and a ruffle around each sleeve and the waist-length hem.

Over the gown, you wear a sleeveless corduroy jacket in solid color of the embroidery (well, it isn't really embroidery, it's print, but you get the point). This "jacket" is the full waist-length of the gown and can be worn, as well, over the ankle-length pajamas that is just like the gown.

This concept appears again in a red cotton calico gown with full, banded sleeves, a little collar and a mustard corduroy smock piped with the calico. This jacket is double-breasted with gold buttons.

Robes for those chilly nights after they turn the heat off begin with a fleece robe in butter yellow rose pink, pale blue embossed with a carrot and two pea-pods for no reason we can think of.

Another fleece robe, this one in bright red, will make

You look like Santa Claus, your face underlined by a collar of fake lambs wool.

Brushed orlon, fluffy as a baby rabbit, makes a luxurious robe that isn't so pampered as you might think it can go right into a washing machine. An even more opulent big sister is fluffier and silkier still, if this is possible, fashioned with lining and a white satin neck tie against its own whiteness. It's $19.98. The other brushed robe is $14.98, as most of the others are.

A botanical print has been quilted to make a tailored robe, and cotton has been treated like brocade to make a Chinese style duster with matching tapered pajamas.

Real pajamas, the sleeping kind, have clamdigger pants in soft cotton ticking with a demure white cotton popover that has little red cherries on its round collar and hemline. The realst pajamas are Edith's flannel ones, full length, tailored or made like ski pajamas, $4 a pair. For $6, you may have embroidery.

BETTER-DRESSED SCHOOL
Starts At Allen's. Going log back to nursery school for advanced work in finger-painting can be fun in a pair of black corduroy tapered pants with a popover of unbleached muslin which sustains a rick-rack merry-go-round.

The store is Allen's and you can begin at that age and go right up to the charcoal bulky sweater that goes over the head of a high school boy.

Back to the little ones for a moment. Ensembles are good again this year, and Allen's shows one of Galey and Lord cotton in a small red plaid, with zip jacket and overalls at $12.98. For the same price, there is a washable woolen plaid with jacket, hat and overalls. A tapestry corduroy ensemble is a pleasing change from the more traditional plaids.

It's New To Us

Boys will wear this fall a pair of twill slacks in cocoa or grey-green with narrow plaid belt, combining them with a conservative button-down in Oxford cloth, or a swaggering cotton knit shirt in print or stripe. Dark prints and plaids are becoming and practical in button-down sports shirts.

The sports jackets are all misty checks and plaids, with an occasional navy or red blazer looming through the mix.

Teen girls at Allen's are trying on the new cotton knit dresses with round neck, short sleeves and full skirt. We saw one in blue, black and turquoise tapestry effect. Camel is a big color in '72, and Allen's shows it in a wool with drawstring waist and tiny brass buttons.

And jumpers! A stable full of them throughout the store. On the teen side, we found corduroy ones with self belt and full skirt in red or green, grey flannel with pleated skirt, U-neck and Black Watch with patch pockets and a wide belt. Skirts are pleated wool plaid with overpockets that have an easy sash, although separate skirts are available, too.

The fall bags are quite awesome for their modest price tags, (around $2.98, more or less), and girls may choose among burlap with black, burlap with brown, a giant black or tan pouch with white stitching, or a tiny, tidy purse no bigger than a 12-year-old's allowance.

For girls not yet ready for teens, Allen's shows jumpers, jumpers: Black Watch with full skirt; pink corduroy with paler pink skirt; red plaid with black patent belt; orange corduroy with navyingham blouse tied softly at the neck; deep turquoise with a pale floral print blouse. Our favorite dress for third grade is bright red-orange with narrow awning stripes, round neck, flat bow at waist and three flat, pearly buttons.

We also like a Tyrolean print with natural background and a separate dark green vest piped with red and fastened with silver buttons.

Girls and boys of all sizes have sweaters, of course. That big bulky meridian for boys is sure of a long line of pull-overs and cardigans, all very masculine. Across the aisle, there are orion cardigans in chocolate brown, red, lemon and who knows what else, and shaggy charcoal with grey pearl buttons. Lots of cranberry red sweaters this fall, by the way.

WHY, IT'S ATKINSON
Bill's in Clover, Bringing his Farmer's Market collection to Hay and Clover, Bill Atkinson shows what he can do with cotton sude in a color called "black" in a simple country suit and with autumnal prints makes one the color and form of dried annas and sews it into a classic shirt or shirt-waist dress!

Customers at the Nassau Street Shop across from St. Paul's, are familiar with Atkinson's way of mixing seasonal colors and textures and combining them with impeccable, yet original designs.

Farmer's Market also includes a persimmon cotton dress with smocked yoke, band collar, and a gold alternative in case you don't want persimmon. There's an all-over embroidered shirt with nut-colored threads on a cream ground.

Not to be out-sewn, Vera Maxwell appears, too, with her usual mix of tweeds and of tweeds and a citified air. Look at Hay and Clover's teal tweed with a brief jacket that has a deeply pointed collar sewn over the round neckline so that a margin of neckline shows.

Raise an eyebrow at that long, charcoal tweed, fitted jacket with classic reverse collar that shows the soft bow of a lemon paisley challis blouse, same print as the lining.

The long jacket, straighter this time, appears in a green wool hopsacking. High patch pockets characterize this jacket, which covers a silk print blouse with neckline bow. The print appears again in the lining and on the belt back of the two-pleated skirt.

For the coldest weather, Vera produces a grey and white tweed cardigan jacket, haring skirt and turtle-necked white blouse.

Leaving Miss Maxwell, for the moment, we find a russet and grey checked wrap-around skirt with U-shaped pockets in olive or rust sude, and a similar check with a rust brown sude leather belt set with an offside brass hook, closing. Belt goes only in front.

A camel skirt, straight, has the soft feel of a cashmere sweater, and a cotton sude jacket in russet has the feel of sude itself. Slacks match.

Slacks are in tapestry at Hay and Clover, tailored in Capri itself for American legs. Bermudas come in splendid woods, like the deep powder tweed, or the deep raspberry hopsacking.

And dresy dresses, always a pleasant surprise in this casual shop, are jewel velvet. There's a shift in deep ruby or emerald or rust, as a matter of fact with the optional belt that is the trademark of this season, and narrow piping of matching grosgrain. Neckline is round and simple.

15 Years Ago In Princeton

TOWN TOPICS, September 1, 1947: Violent Living. For what the writers of deep, rich prose have long called "a sleepy college town on the shores of languid Lake Carnegie", Princeton has within the past month and its share of violence. Hospital authorities, in charge of an institution which serves a sizable area and to which Borough, Township and State Police bring all emergencies, have cause to remember August for a long time.

Still under the Hospital's care is one victim, whose body was literally laid open from head to foot in a savage knife battle. Transfusion after transfusion has brought him along, while his assailant is being held without bail. The latter is probably the only man who ever drove himself to the Hospital with a cut in his neck from ear to ear.

Knives, easy to obtain, easy to hide, are the popular weapon for those who believe in being armed, despite the fact that with a four-inch blade will draw a serious complaint in criminal court. Both sexes frequently carry them, and a Borough street last week, a woman resented a man's attentions, emphasized her feelings by sticking a knife between his shoulder blades. Another victim in a recent case came to the Hospital with a knife still in his stomach.

In Princeton Pulpits. Among the clergymen delivering sermons on Sunday, August 31, 1947, were the Rev. J. Christy Wilson, Union Service, First and Second Churches; the Rev. Victor B. Stanley at Trinity; the Rev. Charles Marker, then of Pearson Memorial Methodist Church, White Horse, in the Methodist Church; and the Rev. Milton J. Nuss at the Lutheran Service, which was then being held regularly in the Westminster Choir College's Chapel.

Labor Day Miscellany. Charles Caldwell was launching his third season as Princeton University's head coach of football. . . The Toni Home Permanent Wave was being touted in the community's drug stores. . . McCarter Theatre was preparing to ring the curtain on a financially successful summer season with Paul Muni appearing in "Elmer Rice's" "Counselor-at-Law."

Ten Years Ago In Princeton

TOWN TOPICS, September 1, 1937: Death Taxes. For the day, then (as now) the mounting number of automobile fatalities prompted Princeton, and communities everywhere, to place heavy stress on the slogan (then new): "Drive Carefully, This, And All Weekends — THE LIFE YOU SAVE MAY BE YOUR OWN."

Self-Service Planned. The S. S. Kresge Co. has announced that the first chain sales techniques in its 50 years of merchandising will be incorporated in the store to be built for it in the Princeton Shopping Center. The unit will be the first of 600 Kresge Stores to adopt a self-service policy.

Skillman and Skillman, renting agents for the Princeton Shopping Center, reported that 65 per cent of the leased space has now been leased. The remaining non-competitive space would be awarded by commodity, with tenants who will sell in the following categories now being sought: household furnishings, appliances, hardware, women's specialty shop, children's specialty shop, florist, luggage store, camera shop, floor coverings, photo studio, and a show-room for imported automobiles.

Zoning Sturdy. Certain sections of the Borough's lightly written Zoning Ordinance placed on the books last December (1937), will be fully reviewed in the fall ahead by the members of the Ordinance five-member Board of Adjustment. Out of such a study may well come recommendations to Mayor and Council for revisions of portions of the act pertaining to "home occupations," possible uses of larar, expense to maintain estates, and the conversion of single-family houses into two-family dwellings.

Few sensed, when the act was passed, that in residential districts professional men, including doctors, ministers and other members of the learned professions, would only be permitted to use their homes as adjuncts to "a principal office elsewhere."

Forewarning. Pending favorable action by the State Department of Motor Vehicles on a recently passed Borough ordinance, all-night parking at the prevailing meter-rates in Municipal Parking Yards will be limited to the Chambers Street lot. At the moment, according to notices posted near parking-area entrances, parking between 2:00 and 6:00 a.m. is free in all Borough yards.

School Report. The Borough's Supervising Principal B. Woodhull Davis looked forward to a record-breaking year in all respects and stated with-out equivocation that the Bor-

NASSAU STREET SEVEN DECADES AGO: This photograph, circa 1936, shows a Nassau Street as it was when the Borough enacted its still-existing ordinance prohibiting the riding of bicycles on sidewalks. "Slightly changed" traffic conditions, with the daily traffic count running into 1,000's of vehicles, have prompted Mayor and Council to introduce a ordinance which would permit sidewalk-riding in all parts of the Borough — except in the business district and provided that bicycles meet rigid safety specifications. The public hearing on the proposed new law, a measure warmly endorsed by the community's PTA's, is scheduled for Borough Hall the evening of Tuesday, September 11th, at 8:00.

Five Years Ago In Princeton

TOWN TOPICS, September 1, 1957: A Upright Minded. The rumored mass appeal against current tax bills in Princeton Township has not developed, according to all indications and with the Mercer County Board of Taxation reporting this week on its schedule for hearing complaints.

Nonetheless, the Princeton taxpayers are still high. Princeton Township taxpayers have registered 90 complaints, Borough taxpayers 45. Trenton has lodged a whopping 811 appeals, but all other municipalities in Mercer County total only 60.

Research Milestone. Buried deep in the construction news in the metropolitan press this week was a terse announcement that could have oceans of meaning for all future Princetonians, and for the world.

The gist of the item: "Walter Kidde Constructors, Inc., engineers and builders of New York and Houston, has been awarded the Atomic Energy Commission contract for the design and engineering of the office and laboratory facilities for Princeton University's Stellarator Research Program at the James Forrestal Research Center."

There was no indication of the amount involved, nor of the fact that this contract requires Step No. 1 in a long-range, multi-million dollar research program outlined last spring by Lewis L. Strauss, though School staff for year 1952-53 was "not only the most adequate but the best qualified we have yet employed."

Chairman of the A.E.C., when he announced the plans for constructing at Princeton a large experimental device for exploring controlled thermonuclear reactions the problem of converting the H-Bomb to peacetime uses, or of finding a key to the solution of the world's power problems.

In discussing the plans for the so-called Model C Stellarator, a word coined from "star" and "generator" and meaning a research tool rather than any kind of pilot plant, Admiral Strauss said that it is "our policy to pursue all promising and feasible avenue of thermonuclear research." Editor's Note: Out of this announcement have mushroomed Princeton University's Plasma Physics Laboratories, one of the nation's most exciting research-teaching installations, which covers some 30 acres at the Forrestal Center and represents some $40,000,000 in Federal Funds).

Theatres Re-Awaken. The signs that the 37-58 theatrical season is about to begin can be found in the news of two Princeton stand-bys, The Garden Theatre and The McCarter Theatre.

The Garden opens up its doors again on Monday with a showing of "Battle Hymn." Its season will be largely devoted to foreign films, but Manager Richard Knight reports book- ing DeMille's "The Ten Commandments" for an extended run at advanced prices on September 25th.

At McCarter, the mail orders are pouring in and telephone calls, too, ordering tickets for "Miss Lonelyhearts," which will open the Theatre's 28th season. There is plenty of out-of-town interest in the show and a considerable rush is expected when the boxoffice opens on Tuesday. Mail orders are "clocked" and filled in order of receipt.

SEVEN TIMES 'ROUND THE WORLD WITHOUT AN ACCIDENT: The Princeton Post Office has won a motor vehicle safety award for an accident-free traffic year. Some of the men who made it possible: first row, l. to r.: James Guick, superintendent; Joseph Morani, Frank Margerum, Cliff Manuel, and Joseph Perone. Second row, Clifford Cartledge, Duane Long, Richard Case (hatted) and Al Venta. Standing on the truck is Charles Bidle. See Topics of the Town, "175,428 Miles."

BIRTH LIST

Fifteen Boys. The stark report from Princeton Hospital lists 22 children born last week. Fifteen were boys. Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. William Lasche, Disbrow Hill Road, Hightstown; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Meyer, 16 Moore Street; and Mr. and Mrs. Dale L. Jenkins, Coppermine Road, Skillman; all on August 19; Mr. and Mrs. David E. McGuire, 93 McCosh Circle; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Zalvino, 50 Humbert Street; Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Sheeran, 177 Parkside Drive; and Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Best, 406-A Devereux Avenue; all on August 20; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Johnston, Black Point Road, Nehalem; and Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Suber, 140 Jefferson Road, both on August 21; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin S. Soffer, 65 Longview Drive, August 23; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bregner, 36 Princeton Avenue; Hopewell; Mr. and Mrs. John Giordano, Wertville Road, Zion; and Mr. and Mrs. John T. Backes, Spring Hill Road, Skillman; all on August 24; Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Ellis, 12 Model Avenue, Hopewell; August 26; and Mr. and Mrs. Lorin Stoner, 11 Constable Road, Franklin Park, August 26.

James Guick, supervisor of mails, reported that there was one accident during the year, but it was not the fault of a driver. A pedestrian ran into the side of a truck and was knocked down. He was shaken up but not injured.

Daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth Walker, Airport Road, Hightstown, August 19; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Krukowski, Village Road, West, Plainsboro, August 21; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Calvanello, 13 Berwick Road, Kendall Park, August 22; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn D. Paige, Lakeside Apartments, and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Tabell, 48 Clover Lane, both on August 23; Mr. and Mrs. H. Eugene Rexford, 60-66 White Horse Avenue, Trenton, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGrady, 231 Kendall Road, Kendall Park, both on August 25.

LOCAL FIRM SUES
Asks $150 Million From IBM. Business Supplies Corporation of America, 80 Nassau Street, this week filed a $150 million damage suit against International Business Machines Corporation in the U. S. District Court in Camden.

The suit charges IBM with 53 violations of the Clayton Anti-Trust laws and the Robinson-Patman Act. The complaint charges IBM manipulated prices, conducted a monopoly and strangled competition in the tabulating card field.

The local attorney for Business Supplies refused to discuss the case. The firm was formed this summer as a cooperative venture of six companies. They are Tabulating Card, 32 Nassau Street; American Business Machines, Monmouth Junction; Whiting Stationery, 80 Nassau Street; Data Processing Accessories; Data Processing Supplies and Data Processing Services; L. Stanley Crandall of Greenwich, Conn., one of the principals in the new company, was an IBM executive for 26 years. The president of the firm is Richard C. Conole of Skytop, Pa. Business Supplies has offices in 15 cities from Boston to San Francisco.

PROGRAM CANCELLED
At Public Library. The open house for the Princeton Public Library's summer program for children, scheduled for Thursday, has been cancelled.

Kurt Weise, author and illustrator of children's books, who was to have been the guest, is ill and will not be able to attend. The library has announced.

This week, the library will present a display of Mr.

Weise's books. Children have also been invited to write cards or notes for him. Those may be dropped in a basket at the library and will be forwarded to Mr. Weise. The children's program, "The Asian Summer," is concluding this week.

The ten-week summer program has included storytelling, displays and open houses. It has been guided by the library's Asia Committee, composed of children. Acquisitions for the library's Asian collection have circulated constantly during the summer.

Business Supplies asks for a decree of divestiture against IBM "to prevent perpetuation of its (IBM's) monopoly and strangulation of its competition because of its superior position." The complaint says the chief target of the suit is the tie-in of IBM's cards and machines "which give IBM a virtual monopoly in both."

The complaint charges IBM of inferring to customers that jamming of its machines was caused by cards manufactured by Business Supplies, "when, in fact, the fault was with the IBM machines."

The suit also charges that IBM conspired with the U. S. Post Office Department by establishing tests for postal money orders printed on cards prior to the awarding of contract last month." This the petition states, caused an unnecessary expenditure of $100,000 by the department and a similar profit to IBM.

The high last week zoomed all the way up to a sizzling 80 degrees, something to make San Franciscans and Londoners feel right at home, and Princetonians to feel humbly grateful.

The day that brought the high 80 also brought the low of the week: 50 degrees, or Blanket Weather. And for those who know it will be a pleasant week-end, but would like some confirmation, the Weather Man reports a high of 79 and a low of 54.

The future? Meteorologists were watching a baby hurricane named Alma, but she's supposed to drop her travelling bag outside of Princeton.

Business Supplies asserts that IBM caused representatives of the U. S. Treasury Department to increase surety bond requirements from $100,000 to $1,000,000 for bidders on a tabulating card contract in 1950 and in 1951, thus making bids impossible by other firms.

The suit also charges IBM willfully conspired to lower prices of standard tabulating cards while increasing prices on special cards; charged customers 25 cents extra a thousand for natural paper stock, although no extra charge was made by the paper mills; and absorbed freight costs of four cents or more a thousand to customers in certain cities where there was competition.

In its statement, IBM said: "Far from hindering the tabulating card company, we have substantially assisted it in the manufacture of cards both in accordance with our 1956 consent decree and substantially beyond its requirements."

"In 1956, IBM licensed the tabulating card company under IBM's patents to manufacture and sell tabulating cards on a royalty-free basis," the statement added. IBM said it was confident that a full court review of its business practices and those of Business Supplies Corporation of America will prove the law suit is without merit.

Thursday nights until December 6. The school is entering its 21st season. Prospective students may meet faculty members and register for courses at an open house on Thursday, September 20, at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria of Princeton High School. Members of Princeton University's department of Religion and Philosophy will lead the course dealing with reason in western thought. It will meet from 5 to 9 p.m. for a limited enrollment.

The lecturers will be Dr. C. Dennis O'Brien, assistant professor of philosophy, September 27 and October 4; Dr. Arthur Sathnamy, associate professor of philosophy and chairman of the creative arts program, October 11 and 18; Alasdair MacIntyre, a fellow of Nuffield College, Oxford and a visiting professor at Princeton October 23 and November 1. Also, Dr. Carl G. Hempel, professor of philosophy, November 8 and 15; and Dr. George F. Thomas, professor of religion and former head of the department, November 29 and December 6.

Fit
Is Foremost . . .

IN THE SELECTION OF SCHOOL SHOES

School may have stopped for the summer . . . but young feet have kept right on going and growing. Now is the time for that very important pre-school size check. Our staff is at the service of your youngsters. We are prepared to check size, study individual foot characteristics then correctly fit a shoe styling that meets both size and growth requirements of your youngster's foot. While fit is the prime factor, we know fashion is important too. Presented here, a sampling of our shoe selection styled for the school year '62—created of the most popular leathers and textures in all the young fashion-favored colors of the season.

Mr. Cawley's opinion.

One thing the survey is missing, Mr. Cawley reported, is the underdrain system. This is the series of pipes, French drains serving as a good example, the builder of a house installs to drain excess water away from the house's foundation.

These pipes should connect to the storm drain system, Mr.
Cawley said, or should deposit the water on lawns surrounding the house. Mr. Cawley then went on to say it was virtually impossible to find where these drain pipes led, short of excavating around the basement walls of every house.
This, of course, is out of the question.

"All we can do is take the owner's word for it," Mr. Cawley said. In many cases the homes have changed hands so many times that the owner has no idea himself where the pipes go. How big a role the hidden underdrain system plays in the infiltration problem, must go unanswered.

Two Goals. There are two reasons why the Engineering Department is eager to overcome a excessive infiltration.
One, the community would like to lessen the number of sewer lines required and, two, it would like to lessen the number of pumping units required at the plant.

Normally some 2,500,000 gallons of waste a day flow into the sewage plant from the sanitary sewer system. During a severe rain, this figure shoots up to 4,000,000 because of excessive infiltration, a percentage of which, as the survey has found, is illegal.

"We have to have facilities and pipes to handle those peak loads of 4,000,000 a day," said

750 HOMES EXAMINED

For Illegal Sewer Tieups.
Throughout the summer, two inspection teams of two men each have been visiting homes in the Borough and Township, checking for illegal connections to Princeton's sanitary sewer system. This house-to-house inspection is part of the community's efforts to track down the source, or sources, of excessive infiltration of its sewer system, especially during heavy rainstorms.

To date, Thomas Cawley of the Borough Engineering Department, reports that some 750 homes have been inspected, representing a cross section of both the Borough and Township. Of this number, 20 positive violations have been detected — direct connections into the sanitary sewer system — or 2 1/2 percent violations.

In addition, 40 possible violations have been discovered.
These are homes in which water is being drained away from the cellar but the inspection team was not able to determine for certain where These suspect violations will be followed up by patting dye

in the water, according to Mr.
Cawley. "In these, there is a 90 percent chance there is a violation," he added.

Combining the 20 positive violations with the 40 probable detected, adds up to an eight percent violation. This

Mr. Cawley. "If we could eliminate the excessive infiltration of our sewer lines, we could cut down correspondingly on the equipment we will need in the future."

Mr. Cawley reported that the inspection teams had been well-received by the homeowners. "We've had no trouble whatsoever." Actually, Mr. Cawley urges the people to request to see the identification cards of the inspection teams to guard against letting strangers enter their homes under false pretenses.

The survey will continue for approximately two more weeks. By then, the Borough Engineering Department hopes to have checked approximately 1000 homes. Shortly afterward, the Department will submit a report of its findings to the Sewer Operating Committee, composed of representatives of the Borough, Township and University.

TWO LOSE LICENSE

For Drunken Driving. Two Princeton drivers pleaded guilty to charges of drunken driving in Borough traffic court Monday.

They were Willie Hurst, 39, 370 Alexander Street, and Charles A. Gillette, 54, 272 Witherspoon Street. Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr. fined each $225 and revoked their driving privileges for two years.

Peter H. Young, 24, 191 Witherspoon Street was fined $20, after pleading guilty to speeding. In other cases, Orville A. Petty, 38, 18 Bedens Brook Road, Skillman, was fined $12 for a stop sign violation. Jonathan W. Luster, 20, Hopewell, $12, red light, and Ochran N. Davis, 58, 61 Prospect Avenue, $15, late inspection. All pleaded guilty.

Edwin Floyd, 25, 38 Mercer Street, was fined $40 and $10 court costs for being drunk and disorderly. He was running on Mercer Street near Hibben Road Thursday afternoon clothed only in a towel, police said. Mr. Floyd pleaded guilty.

BLUE RIBBONS WON

At 4-H Fair. Youngsters from this area brought home armfuls of blue ribbons and trophies from the Somerset County 4-H Fair.

Linda Higgins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford H. Higgins, Kingston, was named champion English rider, and her horse was cited best groomed. Clifford Higgins won the tractor-driving contest.

Grand champion pig was the winning entry of Clifford Cortelyou, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cortelyou, Rocky Hill. Clifford also received two ribbons for his sheep and was runner-up in the escort contest.

Bill and Tom Gaman, sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Gaman of Skillman, received six awards. Bill was named both best "beginner fitter" and "beginner showman" with his sheep. Tom received a trophy for the best rabbit display and rosettes for best-of-breed. He also won an award for the best stadiolus display and a trophy for the best rabbit record-book.

Judy Barrati, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Barrati, Province Line Road, was awarded a trophy for her rabbit display. Her black Dutch rabbit was chosen best-of-breed.

Larry Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. "Pat" Patterson, Skillman, entered the champion Guernsey cow.

Among other winners were 14 members of the Franklin Park Garden Growers who received a ribbon for their window display.

Dear Traveler,

For the first time in the history of this column we are going to make an offer!

There's a marvelous new booklet that has been written by Ouida Wagner of B.O.A.C.

She has gone all over the world wearing and testing various types of "travel wear", making notes and now her booklet gives you all kinds of good hints on what to carry and what to pack in any part of the world.

Just send ten cents (no stamps, please) and your name and address to:

"I'M VERY DISCOURAGED" says Alexander Bartolino (left) over Russia's latest achievement in space. Santo Tocco echoes Mr. Bartolino's dismay but for a different reason.

Question of the Week

Question: As an American, are you discouraged over Russia's spectacular achievements in space?

Where asked: Palmer Square.

Peter Kahn, 22 Cedar Lane, graduate student, mathematics: Let's say I'm a bit discouraged about our own performance in comparison and the military implications. As far as the purely scientific implications are concerned, I'm enthusiastic.

Mrs. Michael Lane, 16 Witherspoon Street, housewife: No, I think it is a wonderful thing but I feel the most important thing is that people shouldn't be concerned over who gets to where first. I think that is a childish way to feel. I'm not saying it isn't important, it is. Certainly, if there should be a future war, it would be important, but I feel there are too many problems in the United States that are not as important. It's getting to the point now where it's not safe to drink a glass of milk. That's one thing they can start working on.

Alexander Bartolino, 57 N. Tulane Street, electrician: Yes, I'm very discouraged. Seems the Russians are several years ahead of us. That's what they are ahead of us is a fact. The size of their rockets and the size of their payloads have got us beat four or five times. To see them get so far ahead is almost a crime as far as I'm concerned. I'd like to know why we are so far behind. It would appear to me that Russia is still four or five years ahead from landing a man on the moon and if we come through with this Big Saturn booster of ours which should be ready in two or three years, then it would help narrow the gap considerably.

Santo Tocco, Cherry Hill Road, Hopewell, carpenter: Yes, I think it is a bad situation. If anything, this should force the United States to wake up to the fact that it should keep its money over here and spend it in research. Then they can worry about countries overseas.

Miss Frances Telese, 303 Ewing Street, financial secretary: No, I think America is probably equal with Russia in space development. I think we could, if we wanted to, duplicate Russia's feat, but we are probably saving our money for bigger, more powerful rockets.

Walter S. Papiowski, River Road, Round Brook, advertising manager, Princeton Packet: No, because I have faith that America will advance beyond the USSR within the next few years. I feel that an excessive amount of money is being spent on atomic research in this country. I think there are many, more pressing needs for our tax money.

Mrs. David Cicelli, 137 Linden Lane, housewife: I think we all are a little bit discouraged because we fear a little bit let down that we were not able to accomplish as many or feats. But I do feel we will catch up soon—at least I hope so. I think it was a great thing that it would have been greater if the United States had accomplished it first.

Harmoo Ashley, 10 Bayard Lane, physician: No, I think the whole space program is a lot of hokey. I think we would do a lot better to spend that money on defense. We could build enough armaments to blow Russia off the map with all the money we are spending to send someone to the moon. This moon race is a lot of nonsense.

Mrs. Lewis H. Saret, Arrenton Road, housewife: No, not at all. I just think it doesn't matter that much who does it first.

Martin S. McVay, 15 Palmer Square, assistant to University athletic director: No, not at all, simply, because we don't have to be the first to get here or the first to do that. I think what Russia is doing is fine and what I hope is that they won't be secretive about their

Princeton's Best-Sellers

The three book shops in town find that August is just as busy a reading month as July—or February or November, so far as Princeton is concerned. Here are the tallies from the University Store, the Princeton Book Mart and Male's Book Shop:

Fiction
"Hornblower and the 'Hotspur'" by C. S. Forester, University Store.
"Act of Anger" by Bart Spicer, Princeton Book Mart.
"Dear Beloved" by Ann Morrow Lindberg, Male's Book Shop.

Non-Fiction
"In-Laws and Outlaws" by C. Northcote Parkinson, University Store.
"My Life in Court" by Louis Nizer, Male's Book Shop.

"Travels With Charlie" by John Steinbeck, Male's Book Shop.

accomplishments. By and large I'm not a bit discouraged. I can't see pushing the panic button everytime the United States isn't in this or that. It's ridiculous. My belief is our whole fear of Russia is based on a lack of communication. The more things we have like this the better.

Mrs. Edward Nelson, 38 Moran Avenue, housewife: No, I wouldn't say so. I appreciate achievement no matter where the source. To me, it doesn't matter whether America or Russia achieved it first. It is a wonderful achievement and therefore I am not discouraged by it.

Ken Lippmann, Cranbury Road, Princeton Junior, student, South Dakota State: No, I'm not discouraged. After hearing all the first reports, I thought they were going to join the two space capsules and re-enter the atmosphere together. All they did, however, was send two up at the same time. The United States could probably do the same thing. The Russians had said the next capsule would contain two men, but there was only one in each one. After all, the real race is beating Russia to the moon.

Miss Janice Golden, Rabbit Hill Road, Cranbury, secretary: Well, I don't like to see it. I don't like to see anyone get ahead of the United States in such an important area.

Miss Karen Tackie, 50 N. Stanworth Drive, librarian: No, to me it just appears that the Russians have had some scientific breakthroughs which have allowed them to accomplish these space feats. I feel it is just a matter of time before the United States exhibits the same, or even advanced, technology.

William Seil, 172 Nassau Street, retired photographer: Heck no! Why should we be

A person doesn't always have to be first in everything as long as he catches up now and then and we always do. I think it is silly this having to be first all the time in everything.

Joseph Olsh, Shamokin, Pa., plumber: Definitely not. I think we are far ahead of them in all respects. I think they tell us just enough to mislead us into thinking they are so far ahead. My opinion is a country as big as ours has far better advancements. They just haven't let them be known yet.

A WORD TO THE WISE

From PHS Counselor
George L. Petrillo, a guidance counselor at Princeton High School, has some advice for incoming freshmen.

"Put yourselves on a schedule," he says, "and follow it religiously. Actually write it out and paste it on your desk at home. Give your parents a copy."

"Good students are studying three hours a night. Don't depend upon your parents to nag you. Be there."

Parents, he feels, should work along with the teachers and guidance counselors to reinforce and help the students.

"And work very hard, right in the beginning of the fall term . . . try not to fall behind, as it is hard to catch up."

"Another thing, set a goal to work toward. Don't drift without planning. Use the facilities of the guidance office to study various occupations. Take a long look at your own aptitudes. Relate your interests and aptitudes to the professions and studies. Records of your aptitudes are available at the guidance office. Make use of them."

Mr. Petrillo, young enough to recall his own high school years and old enough to laugh about them, is now guidance counselor for the junior class—a group he has worked with since their freshman year.

After his class graduates, he will be assigned to the incoming freshmen and move with them during their four years at the high school.

"This way, I really get to know the class, and I feel I can be of greater help."

New Guide. On Orientation Day, September 5, the incoming Class of 1966 will meet Gerard J. Estdt, a newcomer himself. Mr. Estdt will serve the Class as guidance counselor for four years.

The guidance staff, headed by Thomas Seraydarian, now advisor to the seniors, includes Mrs. Mollie Updike for the sophomores and Mrs. Elbel Thomas, college counselor.

The staff consults with Fred Coffman, director of research and statistics and Donald Clark, school psychologist.

"IT TAKES A WHOLE WEEK to find out where things are," George L. Petrillo tells incoming freshman Grace Mazurek, 14, of Belle Mead. One of five guidance counselors at Princeton High School, Mr. Petrillo adds, "At least, it took me that long!" (See story this page.)

"This may seem to be a large staff," Mr. Petrillo comments, "but it isn't. The ratio should be 250 students to each counselor. I have about 400 students."

Old Pros. Speak. The department holds career conferences twice a week, in conjunction with the Rotary Club. Among the residents who came last year to discuss their jobs with the students were a beauty shop operator, a physician, an architect, a carpenter, an electrical engineer, a nurse, an elementary school teacher, a secretary, a forester, a mechanic and an automobile salesman.

"These talks are all eye-openers," Mr. Petrillo says. "The students have a preconceived notion from somewhere of what these occupations entail. They gain new insights from the conferences."

Students' Best Friend. The counselors see a stream of students each day. They are consulted on such matters as schedule adjustments, conflicts in program, personal problems, education problems and occasionally about home problems. The students often stop by merely seeking information about the school, or vocations, or college.

"Students shouldn't be afraid to work independently, but they should go to their parents, teacher and guidance counselor for help," George Petrillo says.

"And above all, the high school years should be very happy years—and I think they are for most."

LEAVE KIDS AT SCHOOL. During Football Games. The University League Nursery School will again conduct its child-care service during all Princeton University home football games this fall. Proceeds will go to the school's scholarship fund.

Children between the ages of two and seven will be cared for during home games in the school yard located next to the stadium. A modest fee will be charged. Mrs. Robert Cook and Mrs. James Randall have charge of the program.

The school will open for its 14th year on Thursday, September 20, with an enrollment of 45 children. Parents have been busy during the summer repairing and painting the school's building on Washington Road. Dav's Chioda, a graduate student in architecture, has undertaken a series of murals for the long interior wall.

Mrs. Nicholas Turitzin, Mrs. John Maxwell and Mrs. Seymour Mandel will teach. Mrs. Roger Maron will have charge of the music program. Two practice teachers from Trenton State College will visit each class once a week. Mrs. Turitzin is director of the cooperative school.

Members of the board of trustees are Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Randall, Mrs. Robert Sawyer, Michael Maschler, Mrs. James Brault, Mrs. C. Dennis O'Brien, Mrs. E. J. Edenfield, Mrs. Harold Schroeder, Mrs. Marjorie Berger, Mrs. John Thomas, Mrs. Simon Moss and Mrs. Henry Broad.

BUSINESS In Princeton

KERSTING NAMED

To First National Post. Robert M. Kersting has been appointed to the staff of the Trust Department of the First National Bank of Princeton as a personal trust administrator. Mr. Kersting's appointment was made necessary by the rapid expansion of the bank's trust department, according to Gilbert C. Turner, vice president and trust officer. He said the volume and income produced by the trust department have doubled in the past five years.

Mr. Kersting has had extensive experience in the accounting field, having been associated with two different firms of Certified Public Accountants. He has also served for several years as a trust administrator in the banking field.

A graduate of Rider College, Mr. Kersting lives in Somerville. He is married and the father of two children.

CLANCY HONORED

By Insurancee Industri. Robert Clancy of 8 Newlin Road, head of Clancy-Curran Associates of New York City, has been named by the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company, has received a national quality award. The award is sponsored by the National Association of Life Underwriters and the Life Insurance Agency Management Association.

Mr. Clancy has won the award for the past eight years, having received the industry honor every year since he entered the field in 1953. The quality award is given annually to life underwriters who have maintained consistently high standards in their services to policyholders.

Since its formation in 1957 Clancy-Curran Associates has risen from 50th to 84th place among 113 Massachusetts Mutual agencies in the nation. Annual volume has risen from $5 million to $21 million in four years. It has policies now in force exceeding $132 million.

A graduate of Princeton University, Mr. Clancy was chairman of the Class of 1949's campaign in this year's Annual Giving drive. He is chairman of the 15th reunion committee of his class. Mr. Clancy is a member of the House Committee of the Princeton Club of New York and arranged the financing of the club's new building now under construction on East 43rd Street.

ENGSTROM SPEAKS

At WESCON Banquet. Dr. Elmer W. Engstrom, 181 Liberty Place, president of the Radio Corporation of America, drew attention this week to the industrial possibilities inherent in producing electricity by direct conversion from light and heat energy.

Robert M. Kersting

Speaking at the banquet meeting of the 1962 Western Electronics Show and Convention in Los Angeles, Dr. Engstrom compared the potential of new electronic power-producing techniques with that of previous developments in radio, television and solid-state electronics.

Dr. Engstrom said the "seed of a power revolution" is contained in current research progress toward silent mobile generators employing solar cells, chemical fuel cells and thermoelectric and thermionic devices to convert light and heat to electricity.

"It now appears possible,"

Dr. Engstrom said, "before the end of this century to possess the ability to supply electricity in any desired quantity for any conceivable application anywhere on the face of the earth, beneath the seas, and in outer space."

AWARDS PLANNED

For Good Neighbor Firms. Twenty of New Jersey's business and civic leaders will join the Commissioner of Conservation and Economic Development, H. Mat Adams, in selecting the top ten "New Good Neighbors" in the state's 1962 industrial family.

The contest is sponsored by the magazine "New Jersey Business." It seeks to recognize any new industrial or office building which has added to the attractiveness of its local area by the beauty of the building and grounds, economic value to the community and the community relations of the company.

In 1961 Creative Playthings, Inc., of Cranbury (see below) was one of the award winners. The year before that Heilmann Electric Company of Lawrence Township received a "New Good Neighbor" citation.

Anyone connected with the economic development of the state is qualified to submit nominations. More than 100 are expected before the contest closes Sunday, September 23. Any business or industry which has put up a new building between July 1, 1961 and

COUNTIES SPEND MORE

Mercer County's 1962 budget totals $9,153,374, an increase of 5.2 percent over last year's figure of $8,703,120. A survey by the New Jersey Tax Payers Association shows the total of budgets in the state's 21 counties tops last year's aggregate budgets by more than 8 percent.

The staggering 21-county total, which does not include capital spending from borrowed funds and certain other statutory items, is more than $223 million. This overall figure includes $204 million for current operations, almost $3 million in current funds for capital purposes and $16 1/2 million for debt service.

FILM OFFERED
By Princeton Film, Industrial Education Films, Inc., 193 Nassau Street, is offering a film called "How To Make a Work Sampling Study" to business and industry in this country and abroad. It is the latest in a series of four films designed for industrial training programs.

L. H. Holton, vice president and general manager, said the film gives a down-to-earth explanation of random sampling and then goes step by step through the planning stages. Next it describes the proper way to make observations, record information and tally data. Finally the film explains how to interpret results and translate them into meaningful reports.

Prints of the 16 mm 20-minute sound film are available on a rental or purchase basis. The script was written under the direction of Professor W. J. Richardson of Lehigh University. Other films in the series include "The Principles and Application of Work Sampling," "Ten Steps To Increased Reading Capacity" and "The Concept and Principles of Functional Drafting."

ARCHITECT NAMED
By Amron Builders, Amron Builders, Inc. of Cranbury has retained Bertram Ellentuck, former principal planner and acting assistant director of the Central Planning Board of Trenton, as director of architecture. Mr. Ellentuck will direct the work of a full-time design staff.

A resident of Roswell, Mr. Ellentuck received his B.A. in architecture with honors from North Carolina State College and a B.S. in engineering from Antioch College in Ohio. His office will be at the Amron Design Center, Route 130, Cranbury.

ROCKET ENGINES CITED
As Dangerous, Illegal, The State Department of Labor and Industry has warned merchants that the sale and storage, without a license, of model rocket engines containing a solid chemical propellant is illegal.

The sale and storage of such devices is restricted to persons holding valid licenses from the State Bureau of Engineering and Safety. Because of the combustible nature of the chemical propellant, it is classified as an explosive and is subject to state regulation.

Store owners have been asked to check their merchandise and, unless they hold a valid license to retain the engines to the distributor or manufacturer. Violators of the State's Explosives Act face a maximum fine of $500.

Earlier this month a 12-year-old Marlinton boy suffered burns of the face and hand when he removed some of the chemical propellant from its cartridge, placed it in a paper cup and ignited it to flare up.

At the request of Marlinton police, the store owner removed the engines from sale and sent them back to the manufacturer, a Colorado firm. The manufacturer has been asked to inform the State Department of Labor and Industry of its other New Jersey customers.

INSURANCE OFFERED
At Creative Playthings, A new insurance program is being offered to full-time employees of Creative Playthings, Inc., manufacturers and distributors of educational toys, of Edinburg Road, Cranbury.

Frank Caplan, the firm's president, said benefits include major medical insurance to supplement Blue Cross-Blue Shield now in effect, group term life insurance and 24-hour accidental death and dismemberment insurance. The company contributes the major portion of the premium.

Other benefits at Creative Playthings are paid vacations, holidays, sick leave and a profit sharing and retirement benefit program. The firm employs 45 persons at its Cranbury headquarters and an additional 25 at its plant in Herndon, Pa.

REPRESENTATIVES NAMED
By Carter-Princeton, Carter-Princeton, 178 Alexander Street, the electronics division of Carter Products, Inc., has appointed two manufacturers' representatives to cover a 12-state area in the East.

The representatives are R. Rothenheber & Co., 53 Cricket Avenue, Ardmore, Pa., and Young Associates, 907 Monroe Avenue, Rochester, N. Y. A national sales organization is planned, according to Carl L. Sonnenschein, the division's general manager.

R. Rothenheber & Co. will serve the needs of customers in Virginia, the District of Columbia, Maryland, Delaware, southern New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania. Young Associates will cover Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Vermont, Connecticut, northern New Jersey and New York.

Carter-Princeton is engaged in the design and manufacture of specialized electronic products and services in thermoelectronics, power supplies, control and sensing circuits and proprietary items for industrial, commercial and government customers.

tem, it must pick up pupils from private schools and deliver them. But the board is not required to deviate one block from its established routes to accommodate the private school students.

Other bus contractors bringing students into the high school include a bus from Kingston and buses from Kendall Park which bring agricultural students from South Brunswick Township. The sending districts of Hopewell Borough and West Windsor Township own and operate their own buses. And, finally, one contractor from Princeton operates a lone bus, Mrs. Maria Simpson of 11 Dickinson Street who has been at it since 1943. (More about Mrs. Simpson later.)

Regulations Strict. As might be expected, both the school board and the driver must undergo frequent and strict examinations. Take the bus itself. According to Mr. Tobias each bus must be inspected every six months by the New Jersey Motor Vehicle Department, the Mercer County Superintendent of Education and the Township officials with each group looking for different infractions; must have a total of 15 lights in the front and 13 in the rear. "And if you have just one not working, you don't pass inspection," said Mr. Tobias.

In addition, each school bus is equipped with vacuum control brakes, four-speed transmissions, emergency doors, first aid kits and a new dual system of lighting. Tiger buses are cleaned and disinfected at regular intervals. School buses, as such, have a capacity of 36 elementary or 49 high school students, and each represents a capital investment of $6-8,000.

All school bus drivers must pass physical examination as prescribed by law. Each must have a special New Jersey Motor Vehicle bus driver's license as well as a regular license. Also, a driver must not have been arrested for a moving traffic violation within the preceding three years.

Every driver is examined each year for tuberculosis. Each is fingerprinted and copies are sent to the State Police and the County Board of Education. All must operate in accordance with the state, county and school board regulations. The Township Board of Education, by the way, determines when and where each driver will pick up and discharge students.

The only person who can keep the buses from running is the Township Superintendent of Schools. "If Dr. McKenna says we don't run today," says Mr. Tobias, "we don't go. But he is the only one who can say so."

Driving Since 1943. How did Mrs. Simpson get started as a bus driver? She was catapulted into it in 1943 when her husband, a school bus driver himself since 1928 when he was 16, had an operation.

About this time her husband had just purchased a new bus and Mrs. Simpson had told him she would like to learn how to drive it. "I was just learning how to back up in our driveway," Mrs. Simpson said, "when my husband had to stop work and all at once I had to drive. I got a friend to teach me how and I went and earned my license."

"In the beginning I heard children say that they weren't going to ride to school with any woman driver," said Mrs. Simpson, "but we managed."

Mrs. Simpson's day starts early. After picking up her bus at Tiger Bus Lines where it kept, she picks up her first student by 7:45. Her area, located in the northern part of the Township, covers 15½ miles and includes such streets as Snowden Lane, Dodds Lane, Princeton-Kingston Road, Mount Lucas and Cherry Valley Roads and Cherry Hill.

From 11 to 12, Mrs. Simpson picks up kindergarten children at Valley Road who have come in on regular morning buses and returns with another busload for the afternoon session. By 3:20 she is ready to start over again, picking up students at Valley Road and the new Community Park School on her way to the High School. She drops off her last student for the day at 4.

Mrs. Simpson reports that she is looking forward to the start of her 20th year as a driver. "I like it very much; I always did. I say if you like something it's half the job. I like children. I treat them like little ladies and gentlemen and that is the way they behave. I never have any trouble."
"Of course, it takes only one and when someone starts something, I step right down on him. Then it doesn't happen again," said Mrs. Simpson. "It take it all in stride."

DR. BROWN NAMED

To Westminster Post. Dr. Elaine Brown, founder and musical director of Philadelphia's Singing City, has been appointed director of choral activities and head of the conducting department at Westminster Choir College.
She will continue as musical director of Singing City, an organization which brings together through music persons of many backgrounds. Dr. Brown is a Westminster member of a former faculty member and in 1961 toured the mid-west as guest conductor of the Westminster Choir.

Dr. Lee H. Bristol, Jr., president of the college, said that to broaden the basic curriculum for student-choral conductors, the college would collaborate with Singing City. Dr. Brown will teach and conduct at Westminster on a part-time basis.

Dr. Brown and other members of the college's conducting staff will prepare the Westminster Symphonic Chorus for performances and a recording next January of the Janacek Slavonic Mass with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra under the direction of Leonard Bernstein.

Let's Stop Playing The Oil Heat Game

A Statement of Fact From the President, OIL HEAT COUNCIL of New Jersey

THE ACTUAL FIGURES

There's been a lot of confusion recently about the number of homes using various fuels in our state. It's high time somebody gave the New Jersey public the straight facts and I can't think of a better authority than the United States Census of 1960. Here's what this source reports:

Number of Households in N. J. ....	7,806,100
HOUSEHOLDS USING OIL HEAT .....	1,135,300
Households Using Utility Gas .....	446,200
Households Using Coal & Coke .....	184,400
Bottled LP Gas .....	20,700
Electricity .....	4,400
Wood .....	3,800
Other .....	5,800
None .....	5,500

These are the statistics. OILHEAT is more than 2½ times more popular than its nearest competitor.

WHAT PEOPLE LIKE ABOUT OILHEAT

OILHEAT is crystal clean — there are no dangerous fumes to worry about.

OILHEAT offers security of supply — an ample supply right in your own storage tank where you know you can depend on it.

OILHEAT offers complete service — not just the flame in your burner.

OILHEAT offers the public a wide choice of responsible dealers — none of whom has a monopoly.

OILHEAT is a thrifty fuel as proved by "The Engineers' Report" . . . an independent survey of all the major home heating fuels in the state.

Your OILHEAT dealer is prepared to give you all the facts about all the home heating fuels available in our state. He will answer your questions honestly and simply. Why not phone him soon? You'll discover — as have over a million Jersey families — that he's a good man to know . . . and he appreciates your business.

William W. Anderson, editor of the "Princeton Shopping Center News" and sports editor of the "Somerset-Messenger-Gazette," has accepted appointment as Golf Promotions Director of the Somerset County Heart Association and in this capacity will quarter back the Heart Golf Classic at the Pike Brook Country Club, Belle Mead, on Sunday, October 14.

The Golf Classic, Anderson projects, will feature at least one of the nation's topnotch touring golf professionals, who will be paired with a ranking New Jersey competitor. The program will also include an exhibition and golf clinic.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Garvey, Newlin Road, have recently returned from a summer's painting in France and England. A selection of Mr. Garvey's water colors is scheduled for showing at the Present Day Club during November.

Navy Lieutenant Junior Grade H. B. Thomas, son of Mrs. Barton Thomas, 162 Mercer Street, has been serving aboard the aircraft carrier USS Forrestal, a unit of the Second Fleet and the NATO striking force, which participated in a special four-nation exercise, "Rupture III," in the Eastern Atlantic.

Midshipman Third Class Douglas C. McCall, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. McCall, 215 Hale Street, Pennington, has completed his annual Midshipman summer cruise aboard aircraft carrier USS Intrepid, based in Norfolk, Va.

Two Princeton girls will enter Stephens College, Columbia, Mo. next month. They are Rosemary Aiken, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William H. Aiken, 67 Brookstone Drive, and Patricia Ruth Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Rogers, 10 Shadybrook Lane. The independent residential college for women has an enrollment of 1700.

Harry H. Hall, Jr., 159 Terhune Road, has been named campaign chairman for Cystic Fibrosis Week which will be observed here with a door-to-door fund drive on Sunday, September 16. The drive is sponsored by the Mercer-Hunterdon County Chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation. Proceeds will support a program of research and care to combat the disease which strikes between 4,000 and 5,000 babies annually.

Don C. Hassall, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hassall Sr. of 417 Hale Street, Pennington, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Air Force following his graduation from Officer Training School at the Lackland, Tex., Air Force Base. He was selected for the training course after competitive examinations. Lt. Hassall was graduated from Rider College and now lives in Levittown, Pa., with his wife and two daughters.

Sandra Sayen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Sayen, III, Springdale, Great Road, and Susan Lees, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Lees, 4 Evelyn Place, will enter Briarcliffe College, Briarcliffe Manor, N. Y., next month. Miss Sayen is a graduate of Foxhollow, Lenox, Mass., and will study liberal arts. She plans a career in physical therapy. Miss Lees was graduated from Dana Hall, Wellesley, Mass., and will pursue a secretarial training course at the two-year college.

Cadet John W. Platten, II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Platten, 157 Westcott Road, has completed six weeks of training at the Reserve Officer Training Corps summer camp at Fort Sill, Okla. Cadet Platten was graduated from Princeton High School in 1959 and is in the ROTC program at Princeton University.

Nancy Ann Lindgren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Lindgren of Princeton Road, Lawrenceville, will enter Valparaiso University at Valparaiso, Ind., in September. Miss Lindgren was graduated from Princeton High School and will major in elementary education. The Lutheran university has an enrollment of 3,000.

Salvatore Pisano, a career clerk at the Princeton Post Office, was the recipient of an incentive award and certificate for his suggestion that an additional career bulletin board, constructed and used by carriers alone, be installed at the Parcel Post Annex. The award, which carried a cash value of $24.60, was made by the Philadelphia regional director of personnel.

PRINCETON "11" RETURNS: The group above has just completed a two-month season at Keweenaw Camps, a boys' camp in the Green Mountains of Vermont. Front row (left to right): Michael D. Ladoer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerhart Ladoer, 131 Patton Avenue; Nathaniel C. Hulner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Hulner, 28 Hibben Road; Neil P. Hastings, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Kempton Hastings, 239 Shady Brook Lane; Clark P. Hastings; James P. Scutese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter G. Scutese, 277 Snowden Lane; and Richard L. Rogers, son of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin D. Rogers, 42 Elm Road. Back row: Daniel E. Hufner; William Wilson, Jr., a counselor in the camp's junior division, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson, 235 Jefferson Road; Stephen Lader, a junior counselor; Lawrence A. Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Jones, Carier Road; and Daniel Jones, a tripping and camping counselor.

$1.50 AN INCH: It cost Louis Vendetti, Princeton Postal employee, $1.50 an inch to have this fish stuffed in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Mr. Vendetti caught the 40-pound, 69" sailfin off Barnegat Inlet, N. J. "When they measure," he said, "they measure from the very tip of the back to the tip of the tail."

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK — II
(This is the second in a series of two articles on Princeton High School football prospects for the 1962 season.)

LINE LACKS EXPERIENCE
Wood To Stress Defense.
"But you've got to have the horses up front," is a popular saying of coaches and critics of football in general. It is employed, most often, near the end of a discussion of the more glamorous backfield when someone will remember how inextricably the fortunes of the backfield are dependent on an equally good line.

No one is more aware of this truism in football than Dick Wood, new coach of the Princeton High School football team. And no one is more attuned to the fact that his little Tiger stable is in need of some more horses.

Time, the lack of it, is one of the chief obstacles Coach Wood and his defensive coach, Jerry Groninger must overcome. The 1962 Little Tiger hopefuls will hold their first practice session Tuesday morning. The following Wednesday the squad will play its first of two scheduled scrimmages against Fr. Chold at 3:30 at home. Just ten and eight practice days later the Blue and White will open its season, September 22, against North Plainfield.

In that short span, Wood must find replacements for such line standouts as Joe Cox, Don Opydek, Tom Vitz, Gary Mauet, Pete Greenfield, and Anthony Allert—all of whom were lost through graduation. Last season, they allowed opposing eleven to score just 12 touchdowns while opening the way for Little Tiger backs to score 19.

Of five returning lettermen, three are linemen: Jim Norris,

AND THEN THERE WAS ONE: Quarterback Tom Reynolds, son of Dr. and Mrs. George T. Reynolds, 123 McCosh Circle, was elected to the co-captaincy of the High School's Little Tigers with Mike Cooper. With the latter's move to California, Tom becomes the 1962 captain.

An end, and tackles Alan Abelson and Jim McKeever. "The big loss" as Coach Wood puts it, is the moving of co-captain Mike Cooper to California. Mike was an aggressive, smart, 215-pound tackle and a worth horse. His loss would be severe were it not for McKeever.

Defense Stressed. Most of the Blue and White linemen will see action both on offense and defense. Like the pros, Princeton High has a defensive unit but it does not have the manpower or the talent to permit the specialization the pros employ. It is this defensive unit, led by Coach Groninger, that Wood intends to devote as much time to as possible. "We're going to spend more time on offense and we hope the boys will come around in time," said Wood.

As of now, it would be safe to say two positions on the line—an end and tackle position—are filled. The rest are up for grabs. By position, these are the leading candidates for those openings:

Ends. One of the starting ends will be Jim Norris, Tall, 6'2½", and strong, Norris played left end last season and has plenty of experience. Coach Wood reported that he plans to use Norris on the strong side of the line to block with the wingback on end run plays. Norris is a senior.

"The end run is one of our bread and butter plays," Wood added. "We work on these plays and try to make them as perfect as we can. We use them whenever we feel we need that critical yardage." A pair of seniors—John Fenn and Brian Smithy—are in contention for the second end position. Over six feet, Fenn has the necessary height and is a good pass catcher. Smith at 170 is the heavier of the two. Both have had limited varsity experience.

Also in the picture are six-foot Richard Daniels and John Boynton, both juniors. "I feel they'll help us at end," said Wood.

Tackles. Here the loss of Cooper is mitigated by the presence of Jim McKeever. Big, 225 pounds, and a natural athlete, McKeever, according to Wood, is an "outstanding" tackle. Used more on defense than offense last year, McKeever "moves well" and is an excellent player both ways.

PHS Uniform Schedule

Coach Dick Wood of the Princeton High School football team has announced that football uniforms and equipment for all junior and senior candidates will be issued Thursday evening, August 30th, at 6:30 at the High School. Sophomores will be suited the following day, Friday, at the same time. Freshmen will be suited up a week later.

Physically for one and all will be held Tuesday morning, September 4, at 8:00 at the High School.

"He does a lot of tackling and a lot of trapping and he is good at both," said Wood. "Nothing is more discouraging," he added, "than to have a 225-pound tackle to trap you the way McKeever does. He almost cuts them in half." McKeever is a junior.

Alan Abelson, a 195-pound senior, and Sam Stewart, a junior, are the leading contenders for the other tackle slot. Both play the running tackle and both have had varsity experience. Stewart weighs 170.

Next in line are juniors Greg Seitz and Robert Reavey. While both carry plenty of beef—Reavey, 230, and Seitz, 180—each lacks experience.

Guards. Top candidates are two, 200-pound seniors, John Thomas and Jack Britton. Thomas played quite a bit last year and is a logical choice. Britton played some as a sophomore, moved away, and returned to PHS this year. "If he is as good as he was when he was a sophomore, he'll be ready to go right now," Wood said.

If either Thomas or Britton should falter, six juniors are waiting, eager to fill the gap.

PLAY SEASON'S FINALE: Bats and the gloves can be put away for another year by these players and coaches of the Princeton playground softball teams. Above are the coaches and batteries of the final game of the season between the high school playground team, champs of the playground circuit, and the All Stars. They are, standing, 1 to 7: John Counts, manager of the Riverside team; John Zart, manager of the Grover Avenue team; Mario Lombardo, manager of the High School team; and Gil Martensen, director of the high school playground. Kneeling, 1 to 7: All Star pitcher; Sam Proccacci and Tony Pirone, catcher and pitcher for the high school; and Craig Donaldson, All Star catcher.

Nick Long and Peter Glaz "show promise." Long, says Wood, will do anything you tell him. He is afraid of nothing.

Leonard Santowasso and Howard Kamburger are tagged as "smart players" by Wood. Santowasso played a lot on defense last year and can play the center position as well. Willard Hunt and Jeff Lowe are untested.

Center. At the present time, Robert Bennett, 185-pound senior is Woods' "number one" center. Another senior, chunky Jimmy Davidson has had javelin experience but is 15 pounds lighter than Bennett at 170. Another candidate, Dave Bonner, a junior, weighs only 165.

Sports In Princeton

One of the five returning lettermen, not heretofore mentioned, is Pete Webber, a junior. Last year Pete played in the backfield. This year, Wood reports that he would like to move Webber up to the line, probably as a tackle. Groninger also has plans to try Webber as an end on defense.

To Groninger's scheme of things, some linemen will play different positions on defense. For example, Norris and Penn, both ends, will play halfbacks on defense. Santowasso and Bonner will serve as linebackers. On the defensive line, Daniels, Glatz, Abelson, Long, McKeever, and Britton should see plenty of action.

Summing up, Wood has a lot of positions to fill and a short time to do it. Center would appear to be weak and both guard positions short on experienced depth but long on manpower. All of the ends, with the possible exception of Penn, need to improve their pass-catching abilities. The answer to how well Wood and Groninger meet and overcome these problems is not off.

ALL-STARS TRIUMPH
Over High School, 4-1. The All-Stars defeated the High School team, champions of the Princeton Playgrounds in softball this summer at 4-1 Wednesday afternoon at the Princeton High School field. It was the final playground contest of the summer.

The decisive blow of the game was Bobby Freeman's triple with the bases loaded in the fifth inning. Pitcher Tony Pierce singled and struck out seven All-Stars to stand out for the losers. Louis Balestrieri was the winning pitcher.

ANDERSON WINS
Chamber Golf Tournament. William Anderson, editor of the "Princeton Shopping News," shot a sparkling 75 to win the first Princeton Chamber of Commerce Golf Tournament held Friday at the Springdale course. Sixteen players participated.

The prize for the best handicapped score was won by Cliff Siverd with a 71. With a three stroke handicap, Anderson was second at 72.

The second-best low gross score for the tournament was William Cosh's 87. He was followed by Fred Blaichner with 92, Randolph Applegate, 90, Victor Pierson, 91, and Siverd. Other scores were: Alan Frank, 95; Emil Tanana, 97; Ross Sigman and Don Truesdell, 99; Sam Kindy, 100; William Coley, 108; Sam Pillsbury, 116; Miles Truesdell, Sr., 129; Jones, Jr., 147; and Kai Soderman, 148. Co-chairman of the event were Fred Blaichner and Alan Frank. They reported they hoped to make the tournament an "annual, and ever-growing affair."

"THEY'RE OFF AND RUNNING AT BLAIRSTOWN": Princeton University's all-veteran football coaching staff, headed by Richard W. Colman (center) prepares to take the field at Blairstown, N. J., where for the next several weeks the Orange and Black squad, early-season co-favorite with Dartmouth for the Ivy League title, will be undergoing the "two-a-day ordeal." From l. to r.: J. Robert Pritch (Grove City '78), Joey L. McQuinn (Princeton '80), Colman, William G. Whitton (St. Lawrence 1947), and Robert Casciola (Princeton 1958).

GULTON LEADS BY ONE
In Business League Playoff. Gulton Orthology defeated RCA Laboratories, 12-7 in the first of a best-of-three game series to determine the champion in the Princeton Business League.

The second contest, played Thursday evening, went into extra innings and was called on account of darkness with the score tied at 12-12. The winner of the series will receive the TOWN TOPICS AWARD, a rotating trophy.

In the first game, Gulton managed only one extra-base hit off RCA hurler Ralph Siemen, but it combined a rash of singles and eight RCA errors to win handily. In a Donnybrook fifth inning, Gulton scored eight runs and RCA, five.

Jess Hewitt was three-for-four for the winners. Teammates Paul Roberts, Art Eldredge and Tom Curran banded out two hits apiece. Ron Kline was the winning pitcher. For the losers, Wall Hinchelbom was three-for-three and Wally Reichert stroked a pair of hits, including a double.

RCA batters rapped out 20 hits and took a 7-0 lead in Thursday's game but was unable to maintain its commanding lead. The game will be scrapped and the two teams will start all over again.

Both finalists had to come from behind in sudden death, one-game semi-playoffs to reach the finals. The Labmen continued their mastery over Educational Testing Service by defeating the regular season champions, 9-7, for their third ETS win. In the other semifinal contest, Gulton edged a determined Engineering Research Center team, 5-3.

ETS started strongly by scoring four runs in the first and added three more in the third. In the sixth, ETS tied it up, and then went ahead in the final inning on the hitting of Joe Patock. RCA refused to die, however. Down to its last two outs, RCA pulled it out on Jim Clark's clutch homer with two on. Winning pitcher Art Hahn helped his own cause by going three-for-three at the plate. Hinchelbom and Reichert each hit doubles for the winners.

Three singles by Gulton's Bob Quinn and a pair by Eldridge offset a three-run homer by Ed Poulson of Engineering Research in the second playoff contest. After Poulson's first-inning blast, Ron Kline shut out ERC the remaining distance to gain credit for the win.

The victor's big inning was the fifth. Singles by Eldridge, Kline, and Bill Peirizzi, two sacrifice flies, and a fielding error tied it up at 3-3. Bob Quinn then drove in the winning tallies to make it a 5-3 final.

FLYING FISH TO HOST
Co-ed Swim Meet. The Princeton YMCA Flying Fish Club will be host to swimmers from Princeton and the surrounding area at the 20th annual School Boy-Girl Swim Meet to be held Sept. 15.

The meet will be open to all boys and girls from 8 to 10. Events will be broken down by the following age groups: 10 and under, 11-12, 13-14, and 15-17 for both boys and girls. Ribbons will be awarded to the first four contestants in each event.

EIGHT GAMES LISTED
For Hun Eleven '62. The Hun School football team will play eight contests next fall. —Continued on Page 25

The Jaycees plan to begin a public information program in the Township and neighboring municipalities. Mr. Crowley said the proposal will give the people of Mercer County "the administrative arm" to achieve long-needed open space and satisfy recreational needs of the area.

LICENSE REVOKED
In Township Court, Gary W. Seitz, Clarksville Road, Princeton, was fined $40 and had his driver's license revoked for 60 days by Township Magistrate James S. Hill for careless driving.

Joseph E. Wright, 19, 37 Dempsey Avenue, was fined $20 for speeding. Harry W. Morton, Jr., 18, 64 Clay Street, was fined $15 for disregarding a stop sign.

OPENING SET

For Plainsboro School, The Plainsboro School will open Wednesday, September 5, at 8:35 a.m. Plainsboro Township high school students will start sessions at Princeton High School Thursday, September 6.

New students, who have not previously registered in the Plainsboro grades one through eight, or kindergarten students who were not registered in the spring, should register this Thursday at 9:30 a.m. New registrants will be expected to have written proof of birth, of immunization against smallpox, diphtheria and whooping cough and of having received three shots of the Salk polio vaccine. Students who attended another school will be expected to have a transfer card from that school. George Beckman, of Lincoln, will join the school faculty as an English teacher for grades six through eight. A graduate of Temple University and Monmouth College, Mr. Beckman will soon begin work at the Rutgers University Graduate School of Education.

A second kindergarten session will be initiated this year. Last January the kindergarten enrollment was estimated at 23. Since then there has been a slight decrease, but the number still exceeds the maximum lunch. Children living far from the school or whose parents work during the day may bring their lunches.

The board of education is making available to parents of pupils a comprehensive student insurance plan for school-related accident coverage.

The plan provides for up to $500 of medical expenses with no deductible clause, a $1,500 death benefit and a $7,500 maximum dismemberment feature. Coverage will begin the opening day of school and will include all school-sponsored activities including travel to and from school. Parents desiring to have such coverage for their children will be receiving application envelopes for the submission of a $2 premium.

A YEAR HENCE

A Nipponese Quartet. Four Japanese students are going to use a lot of shoe leather and gaze in the interest of furthering friendship between their country and the United States. They plan to walk from San Francisco to New York.

Although their hiking will not take place until 1963, the four already are making contract with officials and newspapers in hundreds of towns and cities—including Princeton—to lay the groundwork for their trip.

WASHINGTON PROSPECT CORNER 1964: The continuing series of dramatic announcements from the University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs (see below) suggests that the School's new physical plant will be equally exciting. This architectural projection, centered about the "Yanaseki Building" and its reflecting pool, shows the existing Wilson Hall in its new location (right) and an expanded Eric Chemistry Laboratory at the top of the picture. Across Washington Road (at left above) are 1879 Hall, the gift of Woodrow Wilson's Princeton Class, and McCosh Hall.

If their legs and spirits don't give out, the four expect to be in Princeton in early December, 1963. They intend to visit universities and colleges throughout the country and exchange courtesies with the students.

The four students at Waseda University in Tokyo—are Nihoru Tajima and Katsuyuki Takahashi, both seniors at the common school; Shiehro Onishi, a junior at the law school, and Mituo Shida, a sophomore at the law school.

In a letter to Princeton University, Tajima, who is chief of the planned expedition, said he figures the coast-to-coast walk will take about 10 months.

"Our goal is to further the good will and friendship between America and Japan," he wrote. "We wish to study the freer spirit, democracy, everyday life, industries and many other good points of America with our own eyes, our own ears and our own feet."

"We also wish to introduce people to the real Japan—our industries, culture, history, everyday life, school life."

The four intend to pass on the benefit of their close and thorough contact with America to the organizing committee for the Games of the Tokyo Olympiad and to various other groups.

ous cultural organizations in Japan.

New Jersey is the last state the four will visit before they complete their long walk in New York on Dec. 11, 1963. Other Jersey stops on their schedule are Trenton, Newark, Franklin Park and Iselin.

FIFTH MAN NAMED

To Wilson School Faculty. The fifth in a series of appointments to the expanding faculty of the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs was announced this week by Dr. Robert F. Goheen, Princeton president.

Dr. W. Arthur Lewis, vice chancellor of the University of the West Indies since 1958, has been named a professor of public and international affairs. Dr. Lewis, who will join the faculty next month, is a specialist in the fields of economic growth and social and political change in emerging nations, and has been described as "the world's most eminent authority in his interdisciplinary field."

Dr. Lewis' appointment is part of an expansion of the school's faculty under an anonymous gift of $35,000,000 announced a year ago this month. He was deputy managing director of the United Nations Special Fund before coming to the University of the West Indies, Jamaica.

Dr. Lewis has also served as a consultant to the governments of Gold Coast and Western Nigeria. In 1957-58 he was an economic adviser to the prime minister of Ghana. He served as Stanley Jevons Professor of Political Economy at the University of Manchester, England, from 1948 to 1958.

Educated at the University of Manchester and the University of London, Dr. Lewis has received honorary degrees from Columbia and the University of Toronto. He is the author of "The Principles of Economic Planning" and "Overhead Costs."

Previous appointments to the Woodrow Wilson School faculty were Richard A. Musgrave, the public economist; John J. Corson, management processes in government; Richard A. Falk, international legal order; and Robert Gilpin, science and politics. Additional appointments will be announced in the future.

In addition to expanding its faculty, the Woodrow Wilson School has also thoroughly revised its curriculum, as reported in TOWN TOPICS last week) instituted new programs to bring government officials to the campus and made plans for a new building.

The school's new building, designed by Minoru Yamaseki, is scheduled for completion by the summer of 1964. At that time the present graduate enrollment will be substantially increased.

Before construction of the new building can begin, Woodrow Wilson Hall, the school's present headquarters, will be moved 250 feet to the northeast to clear the site at the corner of Washington Road and Prospect Avenue. The moving operation is projected for the fall.

Introducing
Mrs. Louis J. Iorio
 and her
Quaker Maid Kitchen

Mrs. Iorio of 376 White Horse Avenue in Trenton loves her Quaker Maid Kitchen. And no wonder. It's a bright combination of French Provincial and Early American blended to produce a room exelling in beauty, spaciousness and convenience. With sons Mark, 3, Louis, 3, and Jon, 8 months, to keep her busy, Mrs. Iorio wanted a sparkling kitchen. "Quaker Maid Kitchens engineers really did a fine job of planning the kitchen to my personal needs and desires," says Mrs. Iorio. Mr. Iorio, who has his own masonry business, added to the kitchen's beauty by installing an imitation brick wall and lattice ceiling. Thanks to teamwork and close cooperation between the Iorios and the Quaker Maid staff, this is truly one of the Delaware Valley's outstanding kitchens.

Quaker Maid Kitchens enjoy a reputation unsurpassed for quality and design. All work is guaranteed. Financing is available. We offer free estimates and a list of our customers is at your disposal. Remember, at Quaker Maid Kitchens, you can own the best at much less than you'd expect to pay.

Obituaries

Edward B. Bamman Sr., 67, 18 Rollins road, died August 26 at Point Pleasant. Mr. Bamman was vacationing at his summer home in Lavallette, N. J., at the time of his death. His body was found in the Atlantic Ocean by two young swimmers off Deauville Beach. Mr. Bamman had left earlier to float and paddle a rubber raft, according to his son, Edward Jr., a resident of Princeton since 1906. Mr. Bamman was born in Ocean Grove. He was graduated from Princeton High School and Princeton University in the Class of 1916. He served as a corporal with the American Expeditionary Force in France in World War I. At the time of his death Mr. Bamman was secretary-treasurer of F. A. Bamman, Inc., beer distributors. He had become a partner in the firm, founded by his father, in 1920.

In addition to his son, Mr. Bamman leaves his wife, the former Barbara C. Fowler; a daughter, Barbara C. Bamman, and two brothers, Frederick C. Miami Beach, Fla., and Ernest A. Hazleton-on-Hudson, N. Y. His wife and two children are Princeton residents. The funeral was in All Souls' Chapel of Trinity Parish, the Rev. Francis C. Hootington officiating. Interment was in the parish cemetery.

Scott W. Bowman, 2-year-old son of James S. and Suzanne Morgan Bowman, Federal City Road, Pennington, died August 21 in New York University Hospital.

Survivors, in addition to his parents, are a sister, Kathryn; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Bowman, Orrville, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. William H. Morgan, Milwaukee, Wis. The funeral was at Blackwell Memorial Home, the Rev. Thomas F. Armour officiating. Interment was in Highland Cemetery, Hopewell.

Coraelus A. Dennen, 52, 66 Witherspoon Street, died August 23 in Princeton Hospital. A lifelong Princeton resident, he was the son of the late Alexander J. and Mary E. Dennen.

Mr. Dennen is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Allen, Mercerville and Mrs. Patricia H. Hadden, Bay Head, a brother, Elston J. Dennen, Princeton, and a niece and a nephew. A requiem high mass was celebrated at St. Paul's Church. Interment was in the parish cemetery.

Theodore Allhouse, 77, Canal Road, died August 25 in Princeton Hospital. Born in Belle Mead, Mr. Allhouse was a retired farmer.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Eleanor Skillman Allhouse, four sons, Theodore J., Rocky Hill, Clifford and Hilie, Princeton and Abram, of New Brunswick; four daughters, Mrs. Michael Teaker, Trenton, Mrs. Robert Schultz, Princeton; Mrs. Anthony Goldyn, Manville and Mrs. Joseph Trani, Harginton, a brother, Edward Allhouse, and three sisters.

The funeral was held at the Mather Funeral Home, the Rev. William L. Tucker officiating. Interment was in Penns Neck cemetery.

Leonard Plant, 79, died August 23 at the Sunlawn Nursing Home, Hightstown. A retired musician and former Mercer County Freeholder, Mr. Plant was well known in musical circles.

Mr. Plant was born in Ohio. He was a member of the Trenton Symphony Orchestra and had taught music at Rodentown Military Institute and at Deddie School. Mr. Plant served in both world wars and received a citation for bravery in World War I. He was also decorated by the French government.

He is survived by three nieces, Mrs. John Walker, Trenton; Mrs. James N. Davis, Safford, Ariz., and Mrs. John Ridgway, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and one nephew, Henry Coates, Hightstown. The funeral was at Heyer Funeral Home, Hightstown, the Rev. Terry Burch officiating. Interment was in Greenwood Cemetery, Trenton.

Mrs. Martha Cregar Updyke, 34, 223 Passaic Street, Pennington, died August 26 in Donnelly Memorial Hospital. She was the widow of Lincoln Updyke and had lived on Passaic Street for 16 years. Mrs. Updyke was born in Yardley, Pa.

She is survived by two brothers, Melvin Cregar, Fallsington, Pa., and Clifford, Yardley, and several nieces and nephews. The funeral was at the Blackwell Memorial Home.

"Five for One"

Five ordinances will be presented at the September 11 meeting of Borough Council. Observers at Borough Hall will be in for a "record for the course."

Measures up for public hearing concern:

- Bicycles — headlamps and tail lights required; riding permitted on all sidewalks, except Nassau Street business area and adjacent streets. (See page 9.)
- Battle Monument parking — no more ad-jacent parking.
- Quarry Street parking — on one side during non-school hours.
- University Place parking — Borough's long-proposed plan for commuters' and theatre-goers' parking down by railroad station.
- "Demolition of buildings" — to permit Borough to raze decrepit structures, through adoption of State Housing Code.

FLAGPOLE DONATED

By Legion Post, Princeton Post 76, American Legion, has agreed to finance the erection of a stainless steel flagpole on the grounds of Princeton Hospital. The flagpole, which will cost $650, is intended to go along with planned alterations to the hospital.

Two members of the Princeton Post have been elected to County offices. Ernest F. Drake, who has been County finance officer for over 20 years, has been re-elected to that post. George C. Keymer has been elected sergeant of arms. Both men will serve one-year terms.

Pennington, the Rev. James W. Marshall officiating. Interment was in Pennington Cemetery.

Mrs. Dorothy Husband Williams, 61, Elm Ridge Road, died August 22 at her home. Born in Philadelphia, Mrs. Williams had been a resident of Princeton for 22 years. She had formerly lived in Chicago.

She is survived by her husband, Roy W. Williams, a son, Richard H. of Princeton; a daughter, Mrs. Patricia A. Card of Colorado, and six grandchildren. The service and interment was at the family's convenience under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

DANGER!

DON'T PUT SIGNS ON UTILITY POLES

Every day, hundreds of Public Service linemen climb utility poles to help keep your electric service at its best. But many poles have become so covered with metal nails and staples that it has created a safety hazard. Linemen depend on their "spurs" cutting into the wooden pole to provide sure-footed climbing. But if there are nails and staples in the pole, there's a chance that a linemen's spurs will not dig into the wood. A serious accident can result.

"Please help our linemen to help you. Do not put signs on utility poles!"

BY OWNER

We spent a year making the inside of our new house nicer: e.g. fireplace; French doors to screened porch on breezy side; professionally chosen match stick blinds, Irish linen drapes, valances, and Belgian carpet in the 14 x 24 sunken living room and separate dining room. Center hall entry to this 2 story Colonial with carpeted stairs, large guest closet, and laundry makes ideal traffic pattern. Kitchen was enlarged with more cupboards; electric built-in oven, range, and dishwasher; plus stainless steel double sink with chopping block cover and single lever faucet. Off the kitchen: 12 x 18 paneled family room (away from formal rooms) with built-in air-conditioning that cools kitchen too! Utility room with laundry, large garage with work bench; TV and FM antennae with plus, etc. UPSTAIRS: 4 large bedrooms all with cross ventilation; two tiled baths; much closet and storage space. 36 inch exhaust fan in attic coils whole house in evening. House has aluminum storm-screens.

We planned next year to dress up the half-acre lot on this quiet street away from town traffic, but the work moved to Britain. Here is gracious living more reasonably priced 10 minutes from Princeton. With rugs and drapes: $29,900. Call SW 9-1194 early morning or late evening for appointment at any time.
